To Whom It May Concern:

I'm pleased that my good friend, Emil Mihai Lixandru, would invite me to offer a word or two of recommendation as he begins his professional life in the United States.

I became acquainted with Emil in London during the Spring of 2014 while I was overseeing the operation of a visitor center and he was advancing his career as a British barrister. From the moment we met, Emil stood out as an exceptionally friendly, talented and capable individual with solid values and tremendous drive to succeed in life. His engaging personality helped him make friends easily and he is well-liked by all who know him. It was personally gratifying to observe his professional growth as a barrister after leaving his native land of Romania, where he had received his various law degrees. The fact he now has membership in the bar associations of three nations underscores his exceptional qualifications for most any position he would seek now that he has moved the United States.

I heartily describe Emil as one who, regardless of circumstance, will perform with energetic devotion and commitment as well as with a keen sense of integrity while honestly striving to do the right thing in the course of whatever situation he finds himself in.

Sincerely,
